Toronto Intl Film Festival

The 38th annual Toronto International Film Festival brought A-List celebs and a slew of high-profile movies. The stars graced the red carpet, promoted their films and visited Tribute's Media Lounge. Watch Tribute's TIFF interviews with Scarlett Johansson, Daniel Radcliffe, Hugh Jackman and many more at www.tribute.ca/tiff.

All eyes were on SCARLETT JOHANSSON as she sported a stunning strapless LBD by Saint Laurent at the premiere of her film, Don Jon. She reprises her role as Black Widow in Captain America: The Winter Soldier.

SUSAN SARANDON gave us the skinny on playing a desperately ambitious mother to underage starlet Beverly Aadland in The Last of Robin Hood. She took a moment to pose with her adorable puppy, Penny.

ROB STEWART, who brought audiences the award-winning Sharkwater, was one of the many guests at the party who stopped by to sign our charity suitcase. He talked to Tribute about his latest film Revolution and other upcoming projects, including a TV series.

KRISTEN WIIG styled it up a notch in a Vena Cava black silk top over a trendy pair of printed shorts for the premiere of her film, Hateship, Loveship. She also shows off her brilliant comedic side in The Secret Life of Walter Mitty, releasing Christmas day.

HUGH JACKMAN rocked the red carpet at the premiere of his new film, Prisoners. He next appears in X-Men: Days of Future Past.

OLIVIA WILDE was elegant in a black Roland Mouret dress, Melinda Maria earrings and Casadei pumps on the red carpet premiere of her film, Rush. She will next be seen in Better Living Through Chemistry.

DAKOTA FANNING dropped by the Tribute Media Lounge to chat about playing Errol Flynn's love interest in The Last of Robin Hood. She added her star signature to our charity luggage.

JASON BATEMAN talked to Tribute about his directorial debut, Bad Words, in which he also stars as a spelling bee loser who now competes against kids. We forced him into signing our charity suitcase. Just kidding, he was happy to do it.

Jonah Hill and Leonardo DiCaprio

Leonardo DiCaprio plays a corrupt stockbroker who lives large

by ALEXANDRA HEILBRON

Leonardo DiCaprio stars in The Wolf of Wall Street, based on Jordan Belfort's autobiography of the same name. The story follows the misadventures of Belfort, who started his own brokerage firm, Stratton Oakmont, in his twenties. Although he claims to have formed his company with the best of intentions, he soon became involved in shady dealings, using a trading scheme called the pump and dump.

As his firm grew, Jordan invested in private companies, becoming so powerful that he was able to manipulate stock prices. He once earned $20 million in under three minutes with the IPO of Steve Madden Shoes.

With so much wealth to spare, Belfort embraced a ridiculously wild party lifestyle, living a life of unbelievable excess. He became a drug addict, using cocaine and Quaaludes on a daily basis. Drugs were a big expense in his life, but that wasn't all he squandered his fortune on. He owned a 256-foot super yacht, rode in private jets and hired high-priced hookers. The fact that he had a wife and children didn't trouble him a bit.

To prepare for the movie, DiCaprio spent a great deal of time with the infamous Belfort. He told The Wall Street Journal that Belfort was "incredibly open about his life, especially the most embarrassing parts. We incorporated a lot of other stories that weren't even in the book into the movie."

Director Martin Scorsese spared no expense for the production. Stratton Oakmont threw a big celebration party every time they reached their monthly quota—complete with strippers, marching bands and midgets in Velcro suits to throw at targets, which was recreated for the film. When Belfort mentioned he'd also had a chimpanzee on roller skates who handed out tickets to the stockbrokers, Scorsese went to great lengths to search for a chimp with that particular talent.

"This movie epitomizes the corruption of the American dream, and it's done with a great sense of sadistic humor."

The director also allowed the actors a great deal of freedom when it came to improvisation. "There was more improvising than we'd ever done before," DiCaprio revealed. "This is a generation I understand. I lived through it. I was in New York in the '90s, and I met people like this, and the music was of my generation. I had an ease for just diving into it and trying to document a certain time period that I very much understood."

In the film, Belfort's immense financial power makes him feel invincible. When he's arrested by the FBI for money laundering and securities fraud, he can't believe that his expansive lifestyle has come to an abrupt halt.

DiCaprio sums up the film's theme this way: "This movie epitomizes the corruption of the American dream, and it's done with a great sense of sadistic humor."

Within the realm of fantasy fiction literature, J.R.R. Tolkien's The Hobbit stands as a classic of the genre. Written as a children's tale about a band of dwarves, a courageous hobbit, a wise wizard and a dangerous dragon, it spawned one of the most revered and popular book franchises of all time with its sequel, The Lord of the Rings.

This success has been perpetuated by director Peter Jackson's film franchises, but the process of bringing Middle Earth to the big screen was not initially fruitful.

His early attempts to adapt The Hobbit were blocked, as the rights to the novel belonged to other parties, so Jackson instead decided to adapt The Lord of the Rings. Three films,

Gandalf

The Hobbit: The Desolation of Smaug

Bilbo and gang continue their journey to reclaim Erebor from Smaug

17 Academy Awards and 11 years later, The Hobbit finally came to the big screen in the form of another trilogy.

The second installment, The Desolation of Smaug, continues the story that began in last year's An Unexpected Journey, following the journey of Thorin and Company. Traversing the varied terrain of Middle Earth, they confront its countless dangers, including the dragon Smaug who sits upon the treasures of the desolate Erebor—the Kingdom under the Mountain that was home to Thorin Oakenshield and his company of dwarves. Their quest to kill Smaug and reclaim Erebor is met with disapproval from the elves of Mirkwood and the men and women of Laketown.

The Orc chieftain Azog the Defiler provides another obstacle as he seeks revenge on Thorin for cutting off his arm in battle. The dark evil that persists in the shadow in the form of the Necromancer must also be confronted by the group.

Lord of the Rings alum Orlando Bloom reprises his role as Legolas. Joining the franchise is newcomer Tauriel, the leader of the Mirkwood Elven Guard, played by Canadian Evangelina Lilly of the TV series Lost. Hers will be the first character of Jackson's adaptations not to be based on a character from Tolkien's books, which was a decision made by the film's writers to instill female energy into a largely male-driven narrative.

Legolas

Further cast additions include Luke Evans as Bard the Bowman and Stephen Fry as Master of Laketown. Featuring more prominently this time around is Benedict Cumberbatch, who provides the voice and motion-capture for Smaug and the shadowy Necromancer.

The trilogy, which concludes with next year's The Hobbit: There and Back Again, adopts the unconventional projecting frame rate of 48 frames-per-second, which was met with some criticism following the release of An Unexpected Journey.

The Desolation of Smaug, which will also be projected in conventional 2D, IMAX 3D and other 3D formats, may also receive a mixed response to his use of new technologies, but what is indisputable is the unwavering ability of Peter Jackson to bring Middle Earth to life time and time again.

Endless Love

Alex Pettyfer and Gabriella Wilde fall in love in Endless Love

Endless Love was a book by Scott Spencer that was turned into a 1981 movie starring Brooke Shields—your parents will probably remember it. This new movie is loosely based on the earlier movie, rather than the book. Set in Georgia, it's a fresh twist on the original story.

When David, a young working class guy, meets Jade, a privileged young girl who's lived a protected life, she falls in love with his carefree ways while he falls in love with her innocence. Their love becomes obsessive and they try to spend as much time together as possible.

Jade's wealthy father is suspicious of his daughter's new suitor, and less than impressed by his working class background. He decides to investigate David's past—and what he finds is enough to make any dad upset. Let's just say things heat up in a big way—during the climax of the movie, Jade's house catches fire and David's life is put in danger.

Smokin' hot actors Alex Pettyfer and Gabriella Wilde heat up the screen

You probably already know Alex Pettyfer, who plays David. Born in England, he began his career as a child model, but you probably first noticed him when he was chosen to star as a teen spy in the 2006 action adventure Alex Rider: Stormbreaker.

His hot factor went off the charts a few years later when he moved to the States and adopted an American accent to star as a hunky teenage alien in the major Hollywood release I Am Number Four.

Next he played a handsome high school jerk who gets turned into a monster in Beastly, opposite High School Musical's Vanessa Hudgens.

Audiences got a much better look at Alex (wearing nothing but a thong) when he starred opposite Channing Tatum in Magic Mike as a young man who becomes a male stripper to make some cash.

In Endless Love, he takes on the romantic lead opposite fellow Brit Gabriella Wilde. Wilde is her stage name—Gabriella's full name is quite a mouthful—Gabriella Zanna Vanessa Anstruther-Gough-Calthorpe. Her beginnings were also as a model, but she broke into Hollywood movies with a role in the 2010 movie The Three Musketeers opposite Logan Lerman.

Her family is aristocratic—she's a descendant of earls and baronets. Gabriella may have picked the last name Wilde to describe herself—she was once suspended from a prestigious boarding school when she tried to smuggle in vodka.

Although Gabriella dropped out of school to focus on modeling when she was 17, she soon got bored and went back to school to study to be a painter, but when she was asked to audition for a movie, Gabriella enjoyed it so much that she realized she'd found her calling.

Check out Endless Love on February 14—aka Valentine's Day—a perfect release date for a romantic drama.

Rob's film Revolution is a hard-hitting and powerful look at the environmental issues threatening humanity. It won numerous awards at prestigious film festivals in Toronto, Vancouver and Santa Barbara, to name a few, and is now available on DVD and Blu-ray.

Make a difference with the new Revolution website

by MARRISKA FERNANDES

He talked to Tribute about the new Revolution website, saying: "It shows people what's happening on the planet; what can be done about it and tells them who's already doing something and how."

He revealed that everyone can help. "If you're wondering, 'What can I do about the issues threatening the planet?' This website is what you can do. Pick an issue that's important to you—you can change the world in the way you want to change it.

"Whatever topic you feel is of the most importance, such as ocean acidification, climate change, deforestation, overfishing, then get involved with that. Choose whatever you feel most strongly about."

The Change the World tab helps you create petitions, become ambassadors and/or activists and shows you many more ways to support the planet. According to Rob, the new website will also "connect people with the organizations that are doing things about this."

There are also study guides for teachers, hours of videos, cool pics and tons of info on how you can make a difference. Check out the website at therevolutionmovie.com.

HAILEE STEINFELD – Sagittarius, born December 11, 1996, Tarzana, CA
Hailee Steinfeld always knew she was destined to be an actress. After seeing a neighbor's performance in a play at age eight, with typical Sagittarian exuberance she threw herself into acting. Her parents were wise to encourage her; with a persistent moon in Capricorn, once Hailee sets her mind on something there's no talking her out of it. It also gives her maturity and discipline beyond her years. Her poise and fresh good looks make her a natural to play a variety of roles. Hailee has a stellar future before her and award nominations to her credit already. At least one of her 2013 big screen appearances is sure to garner her more nominations, and quite possibly a win.

Star Struck

What the stars have planned for you

DECEMBER 2013 – JANUARY 2014

ARIES (March 21 – April 20)

The holiday frenzy kicks in early, and your ideas for entertaining and gifts are inspired. Things quiet down by the holidays; expect subdued yet joyous celebrations. Big changes are afoot heading into the New Year. While mostly positive, you may have to do some relationship or financial damage control.

TAURUS (April 21 – May 21)

Avoid travel around the holidays if you can. You're in your element at home, anyway. Get-togethers you host then could become the talk of the town. Heading into 2014, you quietly get relationships, both close and professional, on a new track. A lucky break helps you to look forward to another year with optimism.

GEMINI (May 22 – June 21)

Go with the frantic social flow through most of December. Try to grab some downtime around the holidays, when the plug is pulled on your energy reserves. All's quiet on the work front in January—too quiet. It's just the lull before a very active month for your career and love life.

CANCER (June 22 – July 22)

Eat, drink and make merry! Social events, dealings with children and creative efforts get a big boost in December. To keep the holiday spending in check, make sure you and your special other are totally in tune. The first month of the New Year is optimal for making slow but steady financial progress.

LEO (July 23 – August 23)

You're thinking about home improvements through December. If only because you're ready to celebrate, and to do it in a big way! It's back to the old routine in January. If you're handed extra assignments or overtime at work, accept gracefully. You're being eyed for a promotion, so deliver the goods.

VIRGO (August 24 – September 23)

December finds you busy, just the way you like it. Around the holidays, you're surprisingly candid about your feelings, and a once-indifferent romantic lead responds in kind. A social trend continues into the New Year. It's also an optimal time to open discussions aimed at improving efficiency at work.

LIBRA (September 24 – October 23)

You seem to be on everybody's A-list in December, so mingle, mingle, mingle. Don't let sudden changes to your plans around the holidays throw you; go with the flow and enjoy. Your New Year resolutions include a major career move. January's trends are favorable for setting the groundwork.

SCORPIO (October 24 – November 22)

Indulge in some shameless self-promotion in December; it will pay off down the line. You're full of big ideas for the holidays, but decisions and projects stall then. Fortunately, it's full speed ahead as your love life heats up, especially on New Year's Eve. January's trends favor working behind the scenes.

SAGITTARIUS (November 23 – December 21)

Let the good times roll in December, when your charisma is high. A holiday trip could lead to a romance with plenty of passion to fuel it through the winter. The year 2014 gets off to a slow start. Make sure to put in some extra hours at the office, because a raise or bonus may depend on it.

CAPRICORN (December 22 – January 20)

A slew of invites comes your way in December, and some are not related with work! Make some new friends outside your office or begin a promising new romance—or both. Mars helps kick your career prospects into hyperdrive in January. Your motivation and drive fuel excellent progress.

AQUARIUS (January 21 – February 18)

The holidays come early for you, with a jam-packed social calendar. Late December, though, your good intentions fall flat with loved ones. Choose your words carefully. January is a calmer month, and an optimal time for a winter getaway. You might also revamp your resumé then and send out feelers.

PISCES (February 19 – March 20)

Deck those halls! You'll want to get a jump on preparing for big holiday events. Make sure to connect with all the right people in December. Around the holidays, you'll focus your attention on those who are closest to you. The New Year begins on a positive note, as you look to expand your creative horizons.
